

Bed Maintenance

Who wouldn't love to have beautiful landscape beds like this one? Clean, neat, not a weed in sight.

Well, this particular bed belongs to one of our landscape designers so he has an edge over a lot of us when it comes to knowing what to do when and recognizing a weed from a plant. For those of us who may lack the plant knowledge and expertise, maintaining landscape beds can be a daunting and frustrating task, to say nothing about physically demanding and time consuming.

Our expanded bed maintenance program has a solution for everyone who desires a "showcase" landscape. CM's offers a 3-tier package of services ranging from weed control to shrub pruning. Each package includes maintenance from April through November.

You can learn more about this program by reviewing our December 2009 newsletter on our website or by calling our office. Are you new to bed maintenance services? Sign up for this service before April 1 and take advantage of our introductory discount of 20%.

What do you have to lose but a few weeds? Call us today!

Plan now for that new landscape project

Most of us are winter weary as we begin February. There's a lot of winter left to go and it is anyone's guess as to what Mother Nature still has in store for us. While some may have a warm-weather trip planned, many of us are left to dream about the warm weather to come.

Hardscape construction projects begin soon after the ground thaws in the spring, making February a great time to meet with our landscape designers to plan a new patio, wall or other project. Projects that are designed and contracted now will be among the first to be scheduled once our construction season begins. Not sure where to begin? Check out the pictures on the front page for some great patio ideas.

Don't wait until spring to get started. Maximize your investment this year by building early and enjoying your new landscape all year long. Call us today to arrange an appointment.
